Q. Do you have any medical training?

A. No, not formal medical training. I've been involved in paramedical sort of stuff, like radiation safety and been raised in safety officer at UAB, but I wasn't involved in the day-to-day surveys. It was more administrative. And I've taught courses in -- a licensure course for ... O. Well, you're not a medical doctor?

10 A. No, I'm not.

11 Q. You don't hold yourself out as an expert in this case being able to determine cause of 12 13

A. Oh, no. No. One thing that you were asking about formal education, I would go to experience also. At one point I had a joint appointment in the forensic science department from the justice program, a graduate program. And I did for a period of time give lectures in one of their introductory graduate courses, a couple hours lecture on accident reconstruction.

I didn't try to make an accident overturn versus the impact by the other 1 2 truck, I think that we can make some 3 separation on that. 4

Q. Well, wouldn't a biomechanic -biomechanical expert be the proper person qualified to determine what physical injuries on Mr. Morris' body were caused by what particular objects during the accident sequence?

A. I'm not trying to do that.

Q. All right, sir.

A. My general experience in overturned trucks is that the injuries that Mr. Morris received -- the very serious injuries I've never seen before in an overturned truck accident, so I would think it highly unlikely that these injuries would have been associated with the overturn. On the other hand, impact by another vehicle of comparable mass at 70 miles an hour or 60 miles an hour would be expected to cause some very serious injuries.

23 Q. But you're not testifying as to any

Q. Do you have any training in biomechanics?

10 Q. So you don't hold yourself out in this case 11 as an expert in biomechanics? 12

A. No.

Q. You're not holding yourself out as an expert in this case on what specific injuries might have caused the death of Mr. Morris in this case?

A. No.

18 Q. Do you hold yourself out as an expert on 19 what -- in this case on what specific 20 objects caused any specific injuries to 21 Mr. Morris?

 Well, in the sense of discerning between the most likely result of the truck specific injuries on Mr. Morris' body were caused by any specific objects during the accident sequence?

A. I'm not trying to bring it down to that point, no.

Q. You're not going to give any opinions on

A. I'm just going to say that I think his serious injuries were due to the impact, not the overturn.

stretch mark would have required severe enough impact that, in my opinion, that truck wouldn't still be in use if that stretch mark had come from a prior accident.

- Q. What sort of force in foot-pounds or force measurements is required to make that mark that you call a stretch mark on the belt fabric?
- A. My estimate would be several thousand pounds. I believe the tensile of those belts is something like 5,000 or 6,000 pounds. So you'd have to have some fraction -- some reasonable fraction of that to cause the stretch marks.

In a case of fairly low speed accidents, I've seen quantitative data where collisions with barriers for automobiles at 20, 25 miles an hour with results in accelerations on the occupants of 20 Gs of acceleration. This means for a few tens of milliseconds -- 100 milliseconds that the apparent weight of the occupant is 20 times what his normal weight is. So a 100-pound person would suddenly weigh a ton. 20 Gs, a ten-pound baby suddenly weighs 200 pounds. That's the reason they tell you don't hold a baby in the car. You can't hold it during that impact.

I think the kinds of forces we're talking about with a 60 or 70 miles an hour impact with the other truck would result in forces significantly higher than that. I'm thinking we're talking in terms of several tens of Gs. So the man sitting here in the seat with the bottom facing the truck and the truck hits it, it may momentarily be 100 Gs. This 100-pound man may for a few milliseconds weigh 10,000 pounds for just -- His bounce back from the seat then can stretch that belt very readily. We're talking about tremendous force.

Q. Have -- And I appreciate the information you gave us. Did you or Messerschmidt do any calculations in this case to determine

- A. No.

- Q. The -- We marked these, too, didn't we?

 Defendant's Exhibits 11 and 12 are your sworn affidavit and your March final version of your report; correct?
- A. Right.
- Q. All right. And I want to mark as -Defendant's Exhibits 13, 14 and 15 will

Q. They're not numbered, but I'm numbering them Plaintiff's -- I mean Defendant's Exhibits 13, 14 and 15. And I'll just go one at a time.

Defendant's Exhibit 13 is this version. Now, we can look at it together.

- It was internal. You said you wanted the Α. entire file, so I downloaded everything that was on the computer. What happens is when we do a preliminary report and save it, then when we start modifying it. We usually pull it up, reopen it and resave it in case of a computer glitch. So we end up with the draft and the second draft and the third draft and so forth.
- All right. So that -- Do you know when 0. that preliminary first draft was issued?
- I don't have a date on what's marked Α. preliminary report. Preliminary reports two and three are both 3/17/05.
- All right. Did you get any feedback -- Did 0. you submit the first preliminary report, Defendant's Exhibit 13 -- did you submit

- that one to Attorney Robinson or Attorney Penick?
 - A. Not to Penick. I can't recall if I showed that one to Robinson or not. I remember editing pretty heavily one of the things that he suggested, and I think that was the sworn affidavit. I may have faxed him a copy of the preliminary report to show him what we were -- what areas we were covering. Yeah. He has -- (Defendant's Exhibit 18 was marked for identification.)
 - Q. Let me show you Defendant's Exhibit 18.
 - A. Yes. I did send him preliminary report number two.
 - Q. Well, Defendant's Exhibit 18 is -- looks to be a fax cover sheet March 3, 2005. Is that the original preliminary report transmittal to Attorney Robinson?
 - A. I think it was.

Q. Okay. And that goes with, then,

Defendant's Exhibit 13; right? That was the cover fax for Defendant's Exhibit 13?
